MEMORANDUM FOR THE DIRECTOR

1. This memorandum is for information only.

2. Hanson Baldwin telephoned to see if we can let him have the entire copy of the ⬚ under   STAT

the conditions he discussed with you the other day.

3. Fletcher Knebel of the COWLES PUBLICATIONS called today. LOOK is going to do a special article on Khrushchev. They are looking up any comment that has been made publicly that they can incorporate into their article. Fletcher said that he talked to Leon Volkov of NEWSWEEK who, as you know, is Russian born. Volkov said that in the TV exchange with Nixon, Khrushchev used vulgar Russian, meaning it wasn't pure Russian.

He said by contrast that when Nixon's English was translated, the Russian was good Russian. According to Volkov the Russian people like their leaders to speak their language in the "pure" fashion. Because Khrushchev doesn't speak pure Russian, the Nixon-Khrushchev exchange was not shown generally in the Soviet Union, according to Volkov.
